LATEST NEWS

PRESS TELEGRAMS.

The following epitome of the latest news by telegraph, from all quarters, is taken from our colleagues—

London 25th

Bank of England Board reduced the minimum to day to 4 per cent.

Montevideo, 25th

Baltimore has arrived from Bremen with 80 passengers and 1,900 tons of cargo.

Papers still pegging away at the Misiones Question.

Rosario, 25th

Heat was awful yesterday. Two workmen died from it, and a third is very ill.

Heavy arrivals of wheat.

Pilot of English barque Wolf drowned himself.

Tucuman, 25th.

Bishop of Berissa much better.

COMMERCIAL CLOUDS.

Our colleague the Nacion, in dwelling upon the strong balance of trade against the country, hints at an approaching crisis, of which certain signs are at present not wanting. The excess of imports over exports, as shown by Messrs. Latzina's tables, in the opinion of our colleague, is an unerring sign of a coming crisis; but we think if the Nacion scrutinizes more closely these figures, our colleague will find that the excess of imports over exports is by no means so great as he supposes.

Mr. Latzina in those tables only gave the returns of the Custom House of Buenos Ayres; and when this talented statistician gives us the returns for the trade of the whole country, we feel quite satisfied that neither has the trade of the nation diminished in volume, nor have our exports fallen off. Nor does our import trade so enormously overbalance our exports, when the values of railway and other materials for productive national enterprises are deducted.

Our colleague's remarks on the great shrinkage in the values of bonds, stocks, shares, house property, lands, and even cows and sheep, are certainly well founded. House property and quinta property are selling very cheap, and even appear to be declining in value. National Bonds present a fall of 15 per cent. on 1881 rates. Cows are selling with difficulty at $200 m/c "al corte," when a year ago they were worth $260, and considered cheap at that rate. Sheep also show a great fall in prices, and barely fetch $25 m/c. Wools are equally down, and stocks are so fast accumulating in our plazas that the barraqueros reports 1½ million of arrobas at present in deposit. Lands, even in the most favourite partidos, are not so easy or so ready of sale as last year: and as for the outside camps, although there is no great fall in their price, still they are not being stocked and settled on so fast this year as last, notwithstanding that it costs much less now to stock a place with sheep and cattle than it did last year.

That the markets at the moment are experiencing some check from some hidden cause, no one can deny; possibly, last year we were driving ahead at too fast a pace, still all those who stocked their lands last year have nothing to regret, inasmuch as the great increase of cattle, 40 per cent, more than balances the fall in the price of stock. On the Rio Negro they have 35,000 ar. wool more this year than last, and also an increase of fully 20,000 head of cattle; and had we the means of getting information from Lincoln, 9 de Julio, and other districts, we have no doubt we would find an equal increase in those parts.

The country, spite of every check, is growing and progressing very fast. There are more 'novillos' for sale at present than the saladeristas can buy; and we showed in the tables that we gave the other day that the saladero killing in this province is scarcely one-half of what it was ten years ago. Cattle are doing so well on the outside lands and increasing so fast that many very shrewd parties think we shall soon have the cows selling "al corte" at $150 m/c, and as for fat 'capones,' the province so abounds with them, that we hear of large contract sales at 30 m/c. a price which the farmers have not witnessed for very many years; but it seems every farmer in the country has 'capones' for sale, and none of the 'graserias' are working. Thus it would seem that production is getting ahead of consumption in sheep and cattle, which, although momentarily attended with the inconvenience of a drop in prices, is still a good and prosperous sign for the country.

The great extravagance of the people must be limited to the people in the city. In the camp the people are as economical as ever and spend very little, but in town everyone spends money, everyone squanders, and not a few live far beyound their means. The ladies, whose high-heeled boots brought upon us the crisis of 1876, threaten us with a like misfortune by the extravagance of their dresses and the outlandish costliness of their hats and bonnets.

How much we have changed since 1876 could be readily discovered by some interesting statistics about the sale of diamonds and jewelry. In 1876 no one ever saw young ladies go to school with gold bracelets on their wrists, to-day it is the rule of every fashionable school. Every second woman in town wears diamond earings, and 500% is now as freely for a lady's hat as in the year 1876 35 m/c was paid for a pair of gloves. In 1876 we had fewer private carriages, fewer Palermo landaus, fewer brilliants and fewer lady's hats. The extravagance of the well-to-do people of Buenos Aires to-day is infinitely greater than in 1876; but it must always be remembered that the country grows, trade grows, and the husbands of many of those ladies who think nothing of spending $10,000 m/c on a pretty ring, or $1,000 m/c on a bonnet, enjoy great rentals from their estancias, &c. The High Life circle in this city is growing just as fast as the cattle on the "rodeo," and for the size of it, we believe there is more money squandered in dress, &c. in this city than even in Paris. However, it must be ever remembered that for the thousand in town who squander millions, there are thousands or tens and hundreds of thousands living on "maté amargo" outside. We see no sound motive for sharing in any of our colleague's gloomy apprehensions. The balance of trade, although momentarily against us, will soon be righted by a good season. All we need is peace, and a good economical Government. As for the extravagance of the masses, it is often a blessing in disguise.

THE NEW ARGENTINE LOAN.

Argentines have really little cause of complaint at the failure in the London market of their small £800,000 sterling loan, when they learn that the South Australian Government tried to negotiate a 4 per cent. loan for only one million sterling, and failed likewise in the attempt. Again, the Brazilian Government, with the Rothschilds at its back, only succeeded in placing one-half of its new loan, and had we time or space to extract from the London papers we might give many other instances where new loans have, within the last few months been attempted in the London market and failed. What is most remarkable respecting the Australian loan is that it was a Government loan, and for account of the South Australian Government, and yet it failed to attract investors.

It is probable that most of the new countries will have to be content with what they have got from the London market for a while, since either the accumulation of capital has of late years diminished, or, what is more likely still, the application for loans, &c., in the London market have recently exceeded the average. Argentines, Australians and New Zealanders have within the last decade borrowed very freely, and although the Argentine Republic is paying off its debts more rapidly than the others, still—to use the expression of a London banker to his agent here—"There are too many Argentines at present in the London market."

That the manufacturing trade of England depends much on the loans made to these foreign countries, everyone who knows anything of what is doing in the British workshops will admit. The Argentine Republic is spending millions and millions in Europe on railway material, &c.; the increased indebtedness of the nation, therefore, from this point of view, is evidence of national progress, and, as we had occasion to show in a recent number, all these Government railways are proving now good productive properties.

The Argentine Republic is not borrowing money in Europe to pay coupons or sustain its credit, but for the construction of great national works, without which we are nowhere. A new Argentine loan must this year be negotiated to finish the City Improvement Works; but we apprehend that if the business is placed in the hands of London bankers long connected with this country there will be no difficulty in the business, since the object for which the money is raised commends the loan to the public as a good and sound investment. The £800,000 Treasury Bill Loan which failed in the London market was not subscribed for, nevertheless, the Government loses nothing thereby, inasmuch as the loan was negotiated here and taken firm by a Paris Syndicate at 90½, which Syndicate is perfectly well able to carry the bonds until a more favourable opportunity offers for its negotiation.

IRELAND.

(From the Union.)

"There is no history more interesting than that of Ireland during the first half of this century. In judging a nation, it is not sufficient to seize on an isolated fact, statistical data, or some famous name. It is necessary to read history, to explain causes and their effects, and, above all, to bear in mind, that passing judgment on events that occurred half a century ago is very different from forming an opinion on those which are cotemporaneous.

"In its last article the Nacional forgets all this and is vexed at the castigation it has received, although it has remorselessly wounded the feelings of a whole race. This last of its articles is not as important as the previous one, being merely a coarse and vulgar imitation of the unmistakable style of the old editor-in-chief, and the offence is thereby less, since the writer is unknown.

"We shall not attempt a refutation of the different points put forward by the new writer, as some of them are not pertinent to the question at issue, and we have no fancy for comparing nationalities one with the other, an invidious and tiresome task. We will, therefore, confine ourselves to two points, the sheer audacity and malice of which cause them to stand out in bold relief.

"In the year 1841 there were 232,960 children—of a population of 8,179,000—attending the Irish schools, showing the lowest figure in Europe. It is certainly the acme of coolness to take this figure as a basis for comparing the Ireland of 1841 with the other nations of to-day! But we wish to tell the Nacional something that it does not know, in order that it may know it in future: The Irish are all Catholics, with a few exceptions in the North of the island. The management of public affairs was then exclusively in the hands of the Protestants. Up to 1829, in which year the Emancipation Act was passed, thanks to the gigantic efforts of the Liberator, O'Connell, to be a Papist was a crime for which hanging was considered a mild punishment. 'The Law does not recognise the existence of Catholics,' said a Judge on the bench when delivering judgment!! Protestant teachers were forbidden, under severe penalties, to teach a Catholic; as for Catholic teachers they were hunted down as if guilty of high treason. One Chancellor, Lord Clare, declared that no Irishman had a right to breathe without permission from Government!!! The laws against education were so severe that it appears almost impossible that the Catholics were able to avoid the ignorance in which it was sought to bury them: They were forbidden to seek education abroad, under pain of forfeiting whatever property they had in Ireland. The sons of rich men had to sneak off surreptitiously to foreign lands, to the Universities of Salamanca, Santiago, Lisbon, or Louvain, to return home in the same manner. The poor had to take their lessons hidden with their teachers in the hills and woods, while two of them acted as sentries to save the rest from discovery, while, hidden from the sun's light, they listened to the teacher's words: One of the oldest Bishops in Ireland sheds tears to this day when he recalls his having learned Latin concealed by a rock. Arthur Young tells us that, while travelling in Ireland, he frequently saw groups of boys at their studies, hidden in the bottom of a ditch! In Munster it was by no means rare to find ragged boys, whose parents lived in mud hovels, who could hold their own in erudition with a philologist. Cardinal Newman, struck by this truly sublime abnegation in the cause of Science, exclaimed—'Can there be any one who does not feel respect for a people who seek civilization at such a sacrifice'.

"It would look as if the Nacional had set itself the task of giving the lie to the whole world, but, seeing it at the work, we are reminded of Sidney Smith's story about sweeping the ocean dry with a broom.

"In the course of time things improved in Ireland, and the Government established schools for all: Nevertheless, the Nacional bemoans the fact that only one child for every thirty-four inhabitants attended them. Here again we have something else to tell the Nacional which it does not know: The Protestant Bishops flattered themselves that, by means of the National Schools they could effect what centuries of persecution had failed to do, viz., make Protestants of the Irish by teaching, since force had failed to pervert them.

"The Irish did not attend the National Schools, but learned to read and write at home, or in private schools. So slow was the proselytising process that a statistician with time on his hands calculated that it would take, at the rate things were going on, 4000 years to make renegades of the Catholics, while the Protestants would all become Catholics in a short time. The Irish considered it a crime to send their children to the National Schools, as they would be taught to deny both their country and their creed; in their eyes the National School was more ignominious than a jail. Between the years 1840 and 1848 most of the Irishmen who are now here were born, and does the Nacional suppose that only one in 34 of them—3 per cent—knows how to read and write. How very little the Nacional knows about them! It knows that 1 in 34 attends the public schools, but is not aware that amongst the poorer classes in Ireland the father and mother are their children's teachers.

"It is from this "low crew" ("muche dumbre,") that the purest lights of English Literature at the end of the last and the beginning of the present century sprang—Sheridan, Burke, Canning, Plunkett, O'Connell, Moore and so many others whose names can never be effaced from the history of English Literature. There are over 1½ million of Irishmen in the United States, but with their descendants they number 15 millions, engaged in all professions and industries, and are foremost in whatever business they enter. There is perhaps not a single newspaper in the United States without an Irish writer on its staff. The Irish churches are the greatest: their colleges rival those of the nation; the present Mayor of New York is an Irishman, and the most distinguished lawyers and doctors in the Great Republic are either Irishmen or the sons of Irishmen.

"One word more, and we have done! "When the New York Cathedral was being built, the American law provided that places of worship were not exempt from Contribucion Directa until they were finished. The Cathedral was sold three times to pay the tax, although the Municipal Electors were Irish, there were Irish in the Municipality, and the priests were Irish, and, according to the Nacional, had the political wires in their hands at that time.

"We can only regret that the mania the Nacional has for quoting the United States on all occasions should have led it into penning such foul rubbish about people it knows so little about and who never trouble themselves about it and its theories, its ambitions, or its hatreds. The Irish are all good Christians and as such have only pity for their detractors. Lying does them no harm, as they have been accustomed to despise it since the time of Cromwell, whose ambition begot hate. In our days there are Cromwells too, but mere pigmies.

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY EXTENSION.

AN 11 DAY'S "PASEO."

All the landowners in the South look forward with anxiety to the conclusion of the prolongation of the Great Southern Railway, as it will open to traffic this vast area of fertile territory, as the works advance step by step in their rapid progress. The following details which Mr. Moores, President of the managing Committee here for this line, has kindly favoured us with, will be of the highest interest for the large number of proprietors down there.

Mr. Moores, accompanied by several gentlemen and employees of the Railway, has just returned from a short 'paseo' of inspection of the section between Azul and Bahia Blanca. These lines are written with the object of making known the details, notes, etc; of the trip that has been accomplished in such a short space, notwithstanding the many obstacles that had to be overcome, and the long and weary distance that had to be travelled.

The party consisted of—Mr Moores, manager of the line, Mr. Cooper, one of the members of the Directory in London, Mr John Fair, Consulting Engineer Mr John Coghlan, Chief Engineer Mr Ware, 1st. Sec. of the British Legation, Mr Dering, and Mr. Krabbe.

They left Buenos Aires on the 9th, sleeping that night at Azul, and on the following day at an early hour started along the new branch of the line in the section comprising Olavarria, which is already finished, and the only thing wanting for it to be opened for public service is the completion of the station house. The inauguration will take place about the end of February. From Olavarria they proceeded 17 kilometers by rail which is also finished. From this place, in order that the earthworks may be pushed forward with the greatest activity, they are divided into 5 sections; that which runs from Azul in a southerly direction, that which runs from Bahia Blanca in a northern direction, and three more to different points of the adopted plans. In these works alone they have no less than 2000 men at work, and there are 6000 more wanted if they could be procured, as can be seen by the permanent aviso of the Immigration Office.

Having completed the 17 kilometers the excursionists commenced their journey on horseback and posted in the direction of the Curumalan camps, putting up for the night at Mr Arthur Muggeridge's estancia, where they received a warm welcome, and were royally entertained by the owner. This gentlemen possesses a splendid estancia, situated on magnificent camp, being some of the best land in this district. The following day we arrived at the land, held formerly by Mr Castex, where one of our party, Mr John Fair, has also a fine estancia. We travelled so fast that that night we arrived at the brow of the Curumalan mountain, sleeping in the railway 'casilla', constructed there for the use of the workmen. On the following night we reached the famed estancia of Mr Ernesto Torquist, the manager of which, John Walker, (Facon Chico) entertained us with true hospitality. The estancia has been got up regardless of expense, is very well managed, and is situated on splendid camp. We did not delay there longer than was necessary to rest, and the following day arrived at Bahia Blanca, amidst a terrific storm of rain, wind and thunder, the streets of which were completely inundated. Two days afterwards we commenced our homeward journey all well satisfied with the journey: We started in the direction of Sauce Grande by Pillahuines, sleeping a night at the post house "El Trampa," and arriving the following day at Azul.

But what we were all charmed with, says Mr. Moores, was the value of the camps of Curumalan; "You can form no idea of what they are" they are in fact, the best of the best, about there. I know the camps of B. Aires from San Nicolas to the South, and I can guarantee that Count Casey's can compete with the best in the Province, not only for their rich pasturages but also for their situation and the natural richness and variety with which they are dotted in their great extension.

The latest track chosen for the line by the railway engineers coasts these camps, and in referring to it, he added.

"To-day more than ever I am satisfied with this new track chosen. The line runs along part of the possessions of Curumalan and Sierra de la Ventana, in such a manner that the passenger will travel a great part of the road between two ridges of mountains presenting a most beautiful perspective. Laterly the engineers met with the pass Pihul that divides the two mountains, which will permit the passage of the trains, without the inconvenience of the grounds offered by the two former tracks.

"In Bahia Blanca, notwithstanding my short stay, I arranged some matters that might in the future be very difficult to settle. I inspected the works that are being conducted there to meet those already mentioned; I visited the port, the provisional mole, the materials that are there agglomerated, and the house built for the Railway."

Mr Moores, as well as all his companions, some of whom had been there for the first time, could not express by words the great facilities which the port of Bahia Blanca, with its exceptional advantages of shelter, offers to seagoing vessels, and the important service which Commander Howard, of the gunboat Bermejo, has done the country, by his buoying it.

"You will have a fair idea of what it is when I tell you, that we saw 12 vessels discharging materials for the railway in '26 English feet under the keel,' some of which were more than 1000 tons register, alongside the provisional mole that the Company has there. Besides all former data, there are now depositos in the port of Bahia, 4 locomotives recently arrived from Europe, and from 30 to 40 kilometers of rails with all the other necessary materials.

Our party have travelled over nearly all the earthworks of the prolongation, and have passed through the following camps, according to the map of the Province of Buenos Aires and running from Olavarria:—

De Alejo Arocena, Joaquin Pourtale, Jacinto Videla, Peñalva, Juan Coustas, Matias y Justo Miñana, los Keen, Pedro Miranda, Severo Alvarez, Fabian Gomez, Juan Duharte, Lenzi y Frigueiro, Carlos Fernandez, Aquiles Puyssegur, Juan Peiran, Estéban Muñua, Tomas Jones, Calvino Barker, Pedro Priani, Julio Bambill, Pedro Piñeiro, Juan Ruiz Diaz, Eduardo Casey (Curumalan), Cristobal Marchan, Mariano Roldan, el ex-Fuerte Argentino, Adan Altgelt, Emilio Casal, Juan y Eduardo Vidal, Carlos A Dihel, Suarez, etc.

Owing to the go-ahead way in which these works are being pushed forward, the Great Southern Railway Company will in all probability be able to comply with their contract signed with the Government of the Province, and the progressive whistle of the locomotive will awaken these silent camps to greater prosperity and new life in the year 1884—Diario.

THE PELTZER TRIAL.

A COMPLETE SUMMARY OF THE INDICTMENT.

Armand and Léon Peltzer were put on their trial at Brussels for the murder of Wilhelm Bernays, on the 7th of January last. Both the victim and the accused were of Prussian origin. Bernays was 34 years of age, and was born at Coblentz, but his parents removed during his childhood to Brussels. He distinguished himself there as a law student, took his doctor's degree at the age of 20, was a master of four languages, and, having made maritime and commercial affairs his speciality, settled at Antwerp. He gained a good practice, and married Mdlle. Pécher, the daughter of an influential member of the Liberal party. They had one child—a boy—whom the father idolized; but after a few years of apparent happiness, differences arose between husband and wife. The former confided to a friend that his wife treated him with coldness, while the wife complained of her husband's absorption in business and of his indifference to her. She also alleged that he became enamoured of the maid-servant. In 1876 the domestic scenes became so violent that there were thoughts of a divorce; but the relatives intervened, and effected a modus vivendi.

At this stage of the proceedings appears a person who henceforth plays an important part in their married life. Bernays had as clients two brothers, Léon and James Peltzer, who had failed in business, and whom he was defending against a charge of fraudulent bankruptcy. To aid them in their difficulties, their brother, the eldest of the three, Armand, an engineer, who was settled in Buenos Aires, left America for Antwerp, where he arrived in 1873. The joint aim of the advocate and the brother brought them much together, and this acquaintance soon ripened into friendship. The engineer became an intimate visitor at the house of Bernays—"the inseparable companion of the husband, the confidant of the wife, and conciliator of the household"—as the indictment styles him. Bernays, however, grew jealous at the assiduity of Peltzer's attentions to Madame Bernays, and in September, 1881, an outburst took place between husband and wife on the subject. A servant had informed the former that Madame Bernays had improper relations with Peltzer, and Bernays went to reproach him with his baseness. The interview between the two led, however, to a reconciliation, and it was only after a fresh denunciation on the part of the servant that Bernays forbade Armand Peltzer to enter his house. Armand wrote, indignantly denying the relations imputed to him, but Bernays sent back the letter unopened. Madame Bernays was also very indignant against her husband, who proposed that they should get a divorce by mutual consent, which, however, she declined to agree to. Bernays was advised, indeed, by a Brussels Judge to obtain a divorce, and, had he lived would apparently have done so, for his wife had resented the imputation on her virtue by ceasing to speak to him, and by refusing to hold any communication with his relatives. Armand Peltzer, however, according to the prosecution, at once formed the idea of removing the obstacle to his continued intimacy with Mme. Bernays.

He sent for his brother Léon, who, since the spring of 1880, had been living in New York in straitened circumstances. Léon had been two years in business at Manchester, but had left it in 1877 with an unenviable character, and had next tried Buenos Ayres, but after a short period of prosperity had committed forgery and embezzlement, and had absconded. After some adventures, he had reached New York, where he took the name of Frederic Albert. Armand had great influence over Leon, and induced him, though probably without knowing his object, to return to Europe. Léon pretended to the two firms for whom he travelled that he had been suddenly summoned to Canada. He embarked in the Arizona for Liverpool, styling himself Adolphe Prélat. At Liverpool he found a letter from his brother arranging to meet him in Paris, where he assumed the name of Louis Mario. On the 15th November the brothers met. Next day Léon removed to another quarter of Paris, there styled himself Jules Keravan, took two rooms, explaining that he expected a friend, and had interviews with Armand on the 17th, 18th, and 19th. On the 20th Léon gave up the second room, for Armand had left Paris on the previous night. Meanwhile Léon had ordered a wig and false beard of a Paris wig-maker, representing that he was going to a fancy ball; but he was found difficult to please, and changed his mind as to the description of wig required once or twice. On the 26th, however, he was suited with a wig, which so effectually disguised him that the wig-maker himself could not recognize him. He also bought a cosmetic for blackening his eyelashes and darkening his complexion. He again changed his place of residence, and this time took the name of Henry Vaughan, passing himself off as the agent of an English firm—Murray and Co. On leaving Paris, he visited various towns, exchanging letters and telegrams with his brother, both taking false names, and using a phraseology calculated to preclude all suspicion.

On the 18th of December Leon returned to Brussels, where he took a house, and, with the funds furnished him by his brother, paid a half-year's rent in advance. He now set to work preparing it for the deed. All the furniture necessary was that which would prevent Bernays from entertaining any suspicion of treachery. Accordingly, curtains were put up at the windows, and a carpet up the lower part of the staircase, a chair or two with a hat-stand in the lobby, and the necessary furniture of one room, with heavy curtains at the door to deaden sound. All was now ready except one thing. The assassin needed a perfectly trustworthy weapon for his work. Of seven revolvers purchased in Paris of Messrs. Decante, none was suitable. Armand tried them all, and found they made too loud a report. Léon thereupon went to London, and there bought from Messrs. Baker the weapon which was used. In the cesspool of Armand's house at Antwerp were afterwards found the cartridges purchased from Messrs. Decante, in Paris.

Everything was now prepared. Bernays had received on the 10th of December a letter in English, posted at Hamburg, and signed Henry Vaughan, who professed to represent a shipping company, and enclosed 500f. as a fee, announcing his early arrival in Belgium to consult him upon the Belgian law of public companies. On the 22d, a second letter announced Vaughan's arrival at Brussels, and his intention to come on to Antwerp; but next day a telegram stated that a child's illness had called him to London. Eventually the pseudo Vaughan asked Bernays to wait on him on the 7th at 157, Rue de la Loi, Brussels; and he entered into details on the points on which he was to be consulted. Another telegram, which was sent by Léon to his brother, concluded in the following terms:—"Thanks for your charming proposition, and hope to see you on Saturday. —Marie." The following day—viz., Saturday—Bernays proceeded to the rendezvous Léon opened the door to him, helped him to take off his coat, and, as he entered the room in front of him, shot him dead.

Such are the main lines of the indictment. Bernay's disappearance made, of course, a great sensation. His relatives advertised for him, and there was a rumour that he had mysteriously entered a convent. The Antwerp Public Prosecutor at length received a letter, dated Bâle, January 18, signed "Henry Vaughan," and representing that he had shot Bernays by accident, while handling a revolver, at 157 Rue de la Loi, Brussels; that he had absconded, from fright, but that his conscience had obliged him to reveal the truth. The door of the house was forced open, and Bernays's body was found in a room where gas was still burning. On the premises were so many hotel bills, cards, and letters destined to prove the existence of Vaughan that suspicion was immediately excited of this being an assumed name. Who, however, could Vaughan be, and who could have had any interest in murdering Bernays? The Bâle letter, and similar letters lying by the corpse, were photographed, copies were extensively circulated, and a Verviers tradesman fancied that the handwriting was that of Léon Peltzer, which he knew by having had business correspondence with him. James and Armand Peltzer's premises were accordingly searched, portraits of Léon were seized, and nearly all the persons who had come in contact with Vaughan recognized the identity. On the 17th of February a warrant was issued for his arrest. Thereupon Armand and James sent an indignant letter to the newspapers, stating that they had written to their brother, at San Francisco, to come over and clear himself, which he could easily do, as he had never left America. James is believed to have acted in good faith in taking this course. As for Armand, he had been continuing to correspond with Léon through the medium of a friend, Dr. Lavise, having persuaded the doctor that his correspondent was a lady, whose reputation required false names and inverted language. Suspicion, however, began to fall on Armand, whose intimacy with Madame Bernays was known; and Dr. Lavise refused to have anything more to do with the correspondence. On the 3rd of March, however, he received this telegram:—"Donnez détails sur maladie, après consultation; lettre amie suivra. Télégraphiez Cologne, Buffet, gare, où viendrai faire operation. (Signé) Docteur Lamboss." Lavise delivered it to Armand, and agreed for the last time to send an answer, thus worded:—"Charlotte va mieux; soyez pas agité; écrirai méme adresse." Armand afterwards called on Lavise, in a state of consternation, asked whether he might rely upon him, confessed that the supposed lady was his brother Léon, and added that the latter, misunderstanding the telegram, was about to come to Brussels, and would be arrested, unless Lavise would shelter him. Lavise refused; Armand thereupon left, and Lavise passed an agitated night, being suddenly convinced that Armand was concerned in the murder, and debating with himself whether, after a seven years' friendship, he would be right to denounce him. When daylight came he consulted a fellow doctor, who would not venture to advise him. They both waited on M. Jeanson, a deputy, who took them to a barrister, and after an hour's deliberation it was decided that Lavise should inform the police. Armand was arrested the same day, on a warant of the Public Prosecutor, who had been friendly with him, and had actually been keeping him posted up in the progress of the investigation. Léon was arrested two days later at Cologne.

Léon Peltzer, after his arrest, told a different story from that given in the Bâle letter. His explanation, as given in the memorandum drawn up by himself, is as follows:—

"When I opened the door for Bernays, he did not at first recognize me. When he had taken off his coat, I led him into the parlor, and we began speaking, in a standing posture, of the Murray affair. Suddenly Bernays looked straight at me; and said in French, 'I must have seen you before.' Taken off my guard, I replied in French, 'You are mistaken.' Bernays, while I happened to turn my head away, pulled off my wig, and recognized me. He exclaimed angrily, 'Quoi! c'est toi Léon!' I wanted to explain everything to him, but he would not listen, and called me a forger and thief. I threatened to strike him, and Bernays was rushing to the door, and crying that he would denounce me, when I seized a pistol lying on the table, and stopped him. Seeing I was armed, he tried to escape back into the parlour, when suddenly the pistol went off and he fell. All this passed with indiscribable rapidity, and it was with terror that I saw Bernays fall."

He thought, he asserts, that the advocate was only wounded, and saw, on lifting his head, that the blood was flowing from a wound in the nape of the neck. He fetched water and washed it, and it was only then that he discovered that Bernays was dead. His first instinct was to take flight. Then he thought of the possibility of representing the misfortune as an accident, and without reflection, he wrote the above-mentioned letter. He took the train at 12 o'clock, and reached Antwerp at 1. On arriving, however, he could not make up his mind to enter the town, and 20 minutes later he took the train for Aix-la-Chapelle. At the Antwerp Station he wrote, he says, to Armand, in something like the following terms:—"I have not started for America. A terrible calamity has happened to me. I am going to Aix. Come to-morrow by the first train to Maestricht, where I will meet you." The following day he saw Armand at Maestricht, and narrated the occurrence to him, representing it as an accident.

As for Armand, he has throughout denied all complicity in the crime. Madame Bernays has been subjected to stringent surveillance and repeated examinations; but nothing has been elicited to indicate that she was an accessory. It is also stated that on meeting Armand at a friend's house, shortly after the murder, she told him that her husband's death had left her free, and had it been a natural death, she should have been ready to marry him; but after what had happened, her duty to herself and her child was to remain a widow.

TENANT RIGHT IN ENGLAND.

The following letter published in the Mark Lane Express shows the great hardships under which even the very best farmers live in England. Farmers in Ireland have of course the same troubles to contend with, but people somehow pay more attention to a complaint coming from an English source:—

Sir,—Worse times for the farmers. I am sorry to see in the daily papers a large importation of rough-haired Russian foxes, to be turned down on the Fitzwilliam estate. Have we not vermin enough to contend with in rats, rabbits, and the over abundance of Game, much increased under the 5th section of the ground Game act, which has quite neutralised the good intent of the measure. Fox breeding and large importations of them from Norway, America and Russia. They will breed, and feed, and gallop down our growing food for so-called sport—artificial fox-hunting, while we are compelled to send our gold abroad to buy food for the people.

A hundred and thirty-five packs of fox-hounds are kept in England, hunting six days a week, with sixty dogs in each pack, for ten months in the year, from August to May, destroying the stock of ewes and lambs and all kinds of food as it grows. Are they not stamping the growth of our food and farmers out of the nation and running the landlord to ground?

The chairman of the Cheltenham agricultural dinner stated some time ago that he spent £8,000 per year in fox-hunting, and would like double it if he could afford it (that is, if he could double the farmers' rents). However, he had a great number of his own farms thrown up afterwards.

Hydrophobia, it is well known, was first brought on through foxes biting the shepherds' dogs and the sheep from hunting them to madness. Foxes with the rabies have caused the death of thousands of sheep, and from that the disease has spread to other animals, and even to humans beings. As long as we import those useless animals with new diseases for sport, innocent people will suffer largely. It is not sufficient to have diseased cattle imported for food, but we must also import diseased foxes for fun.—A Suffering Tenant.

EDITOR'S TABLE

Yesterday was pleasant and cool, thanks to the 'aguacero' on Wednesday evening. The night was as fresh as paint and everybody slept well, except Treasury Bondholders, who "bitterly thought of the morrow."

We thank the Tribuna Nacional for its eloquent defence of 'Poor Ireland' in its issue of yesterday. The Government organ is justly severe on the outrageous attack on the nationality of the men who may fairly claim to have laid the foundation on which all the prosperity of this country has been built up—the Irish sheepfarmers of Buenos Aires. But for them the country would not be what it is to-day.

Last night's Nacional had a Parthian arrow from the Tammany Hall writer. The whole article is a tissue of exaggeration and falsehood unworthy of notice. Irishmen, with all their faults, are welcome immigrants on every shore, and the day we can see the Boca crowded with newly arrived Irish emigrants will, spite of all that our colleague may urge to the contrary, be a grand day for the country, but a bad day for those who live on an expired fame, and who today are like fallen lamp-posts: their lights are out and they obstruct the way.

Mr. Petre, Her Majesty's popular representative here, will leave for home in the R.M.S. Trent, on Monday next. We wish him a pleasant vacation and speedy return to us.

Several subscribers to our valued colleague the Courrier write to it in reference to the same thing that struck us, viz, the prevalence of dishes with Royalist names at the dinner given the other day by Dr. Simon, President of the French Philanthropic Society. We persist in considering it a sign of the political times, little short of a Royalist plot. 'The cordon bleu' or the purveyor on the occassion is evidently a monarchist in disguise. The idea of putting roast beef 'á la Chambord' before staunch yet hungry republicans, when it was as easy to call it 'á la Montagne!' 'Poisson á la Joinville' would smell and taste as sweet by any other name, say 'á la Marat;' and where were the 'chef's' wits when he omitted to pay a graceful compliment to the host, while feigning detestation of monarchy, by serving up 'veau á la Simon' instead of 'á la Chantilly?' The French Minister here should keep his eye on this monarchist 'chef,' who is evidently bent on undermining the French Republic.

The hot weather we have just gone through proved very disastrous to all fresh meats, driving housewives deranged, and provision dealers to their wits' end. Such of them, however, as were energetic enough to employ the new food-preservative "Glacialine" have been saved all trouble, as they all had their roast beef, milk, puddings etc in the best condition and entirely free from taint. Such is the success of this powder that we may fairly hope to see it take the place of salt in the 'saladeros,' and the Brazilians may henceforth get their beef fresh instead of dried and salted. The agents, Messrs Lochore and Samson, are still giving away samples gratis.

The Tribuna Nacional gives the Industrial Club a rap over the knuckles for its circular stating that it has appointed a Committee to "attend to the complaints" of those who have been overcharged Patente Tax. Our col

AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral

Well-known all over the world for the prompt cure of the following diseases:

Coughs, Colds, Catarrhs, Inflammation of the Lungs, Bronchitis and Incipient Consumption, and also for the relief of those suffering from Chronic Consumption even in its Most Advanced Stage.

In the various affections of the Throat and Lungs, its employment in the first stage is always sure to arrest the disease, which makes Dr. AYER'S Cherry Pectoral a most desirable medicine to have always at hand. Those who have used this medicine knowing well its efficacy, declar they are never without it at home and never fail to recommend it to their friends suffering from any of the above diseases.

Medical men who know well the formula by which it is compounded, and the beneficial effects from its employment, never fail to prescribe Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

It is also frequently recommended by those of the Clergy who have used it. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is also remarkable in its Sanatory effects, arresting as it is sure to do, the ravages of epidemic affections of the Throat and Lungs, thus making it the most efficacious medicine which can be employed.

Cedulas A	100½
Cedulas E	84½
National Bank Shares	101½
National 5 o/o	72

The market opened this morning with a firm feeling in National Bank Shares, due to a cablegram from Europe announcing the Bank rate at 4 o/o and to favorable rumors with regard to the advances to the National Bank. The lower rate of interest telegraphed from London forms a striking contrast with late advices from Paris. The continental markets may be in bad condition and have no doubt occasioned an efflux of capital to London. The news is accepted as a most favorable harbinger of the success of the contemplated advances to the Bank.

To-day the contract signed between the Board of the National Bank and Mr. Franken expired but then new proposals are already talked of in the market, made by parties in representation of Count Erlanger, Comptoir d'Escompte and Syndicate of Paris bankers and finally Morton, Rose & Co. Several parties spread the rumor that one of these proposals was on the eve of acceptance, whilst others stated that a species of "modus vivendi" had been accepted with regard to the Franken arrangement; it was rumored to-day that the Board of Directors of the National Bank had, after the refusal to grant 15 days longer to Franken, reconsidered the decision at the instigation of highly influential parties. Thus all hopes of the Franken arrangement are not given up. No telegrams were received from Paris and the whole affair is enveloped in a hazy cloud. In the market operators talk of a proposal from London bankers to take the bonds of the Government and to advance the money under the conditions of the Franken contract.

The share market ruled very dull during official hours. Fifty shares were sold cash at 101¾. Five hundred shares were sold for the end of the month; rates opened at 101½, rose to 101¾ and closed at 101½. Only 150 shares were sold for the end of February at 103½, and operations were effected as the ring was dissolved at 103¾. The chief feature of the market is its firm feeling and upward tendency.

The gold market rules active and there is a steady demand for specie for long dates. Twenty thousand were bought for the end of June at 25.15. Twenty thousand were bought for the end of the year at 25.30. Operations for cash ruled dull, and there is little doing. Buyers are more numerous than sellers.

Several thousand new National 5 o/o were sold to-day at 72 o/o.

Cedulas rule firm at the current rates of the market, but operations are very limited for cash and for the end of the month. Series A is quoted at 100½. Seven thousand Series E were sold for cash at 84½ and 84¾. Twenty thousand were sold for the end of the month at 84½ and as much for the end of February at 84¾.

The state of the wool market is calling the attention of all. The operations of the week have been active in all good qualities and the high prices paid by several of the wool "artistas" have staggered both barraqueros and consignatarios. Special interest is attached to the heavy purchases made of late in deposit by some few foreign wool-buyers. All wonder how from $80-85 % is being paid for middling wools from the North camps.

Advices, telegrams, and circulars from Europe continue to confirm the unfavourable news of exaggerated estimates made in this market. The mistakes made by the wool buyers in Tourcoign and Roubaix, and the bad results of the Havre auction in the middling and inferior qualities show the feeling of the North of France. "Artistas" in general operated on what they considered a basis of 5 fcs. for middling wools washed and 5.50 fcs. for good qualities. Advices from the manufacturing districts state that these purchases have been made on a basis of 10 per cent. over the mark. The bankers of Europe, according to private correspondence, are frightened at the losses which will be sustained by the wool purchases of the season. The speculation of the artistas in this market, have occasioned a sharp competition in the purchase of wool and a collateral inflation of prices. This has been followed by a competition in the sale of woolen articles in the manufacturing districts, and a consequent depreciation.

Very large quantities of inferior wools are arriving in the Plaza; these wools are so bad that the very best authorities in wool yields—the 'artistas'—have not been able to calculate their yield. The consignatarios have sent same to deposit in consequence. Woolmen calculate that there are 1,200,000 arrobes of wool in deposit at present. Good qualities in the South market are fetching very high prices 100 m|c was paid yesterday for a large lot. These very high prices clash with the bad news continually received from Europe.

The Sud America is expected up at Montevideo from Genoa and ports on the 27th.

Mr A Trebbi and R Rangacq have solicited to be examined as pilots.

The annual report of the Bolsa was handed round to-day to the members. The figures of 1882 are most satisfactory:

Receipts	879,377	%
Expenses	596,780
Profits	282,597
The profits are distributed as follows:—
20 o/o dividend	276,000	%
Carried forward	6,597
Total	282,597
The reserve fund amounts to distributed as follows:—	1,127,735	m/c,
554 Bolsa shares	900,362	%
Prov. Bank	208,727
Receipts due	18,646
	1,127,735	%

The members of the Bolsa number actually 1,950: 1600 are active members and 450 are absent. The Reserve Fund shows an increase of $60,000 m/c., and the monthly receipts are $25,000 m/c. per month, larger than the year before, owing to the entry of 100 new members. The 554 Shares of the Reserve Fund will receive for dividend $110,800 m/c. The dividend payable on the Shares is the best compliment that can be tributed to the able management of the Camara Sindical, presided over by Don Emilio Fernandez.

The Spanish steamer Santa Domingo will not come up here from the West Coast, but will leave directly from Montevideo for Bordeaux and ports, having a full cargo from the West Coast. She leaves on the 6th Montevideo.

There were never so many English sailing vessels in port of Rosario as at present.

The lighter Luisa, belonging to Mr Geray, dragged her anchor yesterday during the storm and got slightly damaged. Happily her cargo has not been injured.

The Baltimore is up at Montevideo from Bremen and ports with 80 passengers and 1900 tons cargo. She will be up on Saturday.

The sales at the ring were as follows:—

Cedulas—
For cash A 7,450 at 100½
For cash E 7,000 at 84¾-½
For Jan. 31st E 20,000 at 84½
For Feb. 28th E 20,000 at 84½
Sales, 54,450

National Bank Shares—
For cash 50 at 101¾
For Jan. 31st 500 at 101½-¾-½
For Feb. 28th 150 at 103½
Sales, 700

National Bonds, 1881, 5 o/o—
For cash 6,000 at 72

Gold—
For June 30th 20,000 at 25.15
For Dec. 31st 20,000 at 25.30

The following figures of the gold reserve of the Provincial Bank during each month of the past year will be read with interest:—

January	$ 2,710,920
February	3,830,296
March	4,886,170
April	5,152,876
May	4,182,099
June	3,862,393
July	3,494,562
August	3,962,187
September	4,224,132
October	4,770,639
November	5,439,140
December	5,645,217

Notice to Flax Growers.

The undersigned is now prepared to supply Flax Growers with specially constructed machine, with reversible gear for making tow or scutching the fine fibre.

Their suitability for the above purpose cannot be denied and their simplicity of working is such that a youth of 12 years can manage them with perfect safety. The machine is so constructed that the breaking and scutching processes are performed at the same time, so that there are in reality two machines combined in one, doing their work simultaneously.

The machine being constructed on wheels, can be easily moved to any part of the line field.

For cheapness the price will be so reasonable that it will come within the reach of all, and for durability and completness in doing their work none has as yet been offered with such advantages to cultivator of Flax.

For further informations please apply personally or by letter at my address.

Venderemos por un precio que exceda a la infima base fijada y al contado el esplendido campo ubicado en el partido de Suipacha conocido por La Laguna de los Leones.

Linda este campo al N.O. y N.E. con campos de la testamentaria de D. Pablo Martinez, por el Sud con la gran estancia del Sr. D. Mariano Bernal y por el S.O. con los Srs. Enrique Diehl y el Dr Leonardo Rodriguez Gaete.

Tiene este campo un esplendido edificio que constituye la estancia, muchos puestos de material, ranchos etc.

El costado que linda con el Sr Diehl esta alambrado en una estencion de 20 cuadras lineales con 6 alambres y postes de ñandubay a 7 varas de distancia y con dos varillas entre poste y poste.

La riquisima clase de los pastos, su ubicacion y proximidad a la Capital, asi como la circunstancia de que todas las poblaciones, edificios, alambrados y potreros van por muertos hacen que la base fijada de $1000 m/c la cuadra sea tan infima que es sobre ella que llamamos muy especialmente la atencion de las personas que deseen adquirir campo flor casi de regalo.

A las 2 en punto de la tarde

Venderemos al mas alto precio y al contado el esplendido lote de animales a que nos referimos elegidos todos ellos personalmente en Inglaterra por el conocido Sr. D. W Nash.

Las vacas y toros de la mas rica sangre Durham que habran podido los señores inteligentes inspecionar en nuestra casa, constituyen un lote unico por su belleza y condiciones de sangre.

Las 3 notables yeguas y el hermoso padrillo de carrera, son animales de indiscutable merito que los conocedores deben apreciar.

Invitamos a todos los criadores para este remate unico por la bondad del articulo, garantiendoles que es imposible encontrar mejores animales.

Pedigrees, certificados, etc, en nuestra casa, San Martin 51.

Value of Coins.

Regarding the value of the coins in circulation in the Interior, the National Executive Power has issued the following decree:

Finance Office of the Nation
B. Aires, Jan. 4th, 1883

Having seen the petition in which the merchants of Tucuman ask that the value of the Bolivian 'chirola' be fixed according to Nat. currency, and in view of the report by the 'Contaduria General,' and considering:

That said coins have been valued by successive decrees according to their metallic value in accord with the alternatives of silver in universal currency, and accordingly said value has been received and delivered by the fiscal offices of the Nation.

That the resolution of the 2nd Dec. 1882 establishing the price for buying foreign silver, for re-coinage, will not interfere with said value.

That the difficulties which the petitioners feared cannot occur, since they refer to the currency they have, and it has a legal, valued circulation.

That all the obligations assigned to the Bolivian dollar in the different provinces of the Interior has always carried explicitly the determined value that in each contract is understood by the phrase 'Bolivian dollar,' and its metalic conversion corresponding according as the case may be.

That though in the provinces they have had Banks of emission regulated according to the value of the Bolivian dollar, it has not been at all uniform, since their notes during the period of their convertibility are not equal to the Bolivian dollar of two cuatros, since in San Juan, Cordoba and Santa Fe they emit it at the value of $fts. 0.75, whilst in other places the value of the 4 Chirolas is issued at 0.14 c. fts or 0.56 fuertes, following the monetary system of each place. There are even some banks that issue the name of Bolivian dollar notes of $f.0.75 cent in one branch whilst in another branch of same bank they are issued at 0.56 c. fuertes.

That they should not confound the various unities that under the name of 'Bolivians' have circulated in the Interior, composed of a number of moneys of fixed value, with the Bolivian dollar called 'Efectivo' which is composed of two cuatros, withdrawn from circulation by decree 6 June 1876, but has been circulating privately, causing the decree of the 31st Oct. to be issued.

That the meeting called by the Contaduria settles the case in question, and all others of the same nature, and the question of fixing the value of moneys in legal circulation or tolerated in the country can be considered arranged.

By these rules and in conformity with the previous reports, the above question must be arranged by the decree of the 2nd Dec. 1882. Let this be made known to the Supreme Government of Tucuman with transcription of the Report of the Contaduria, and let it be published.

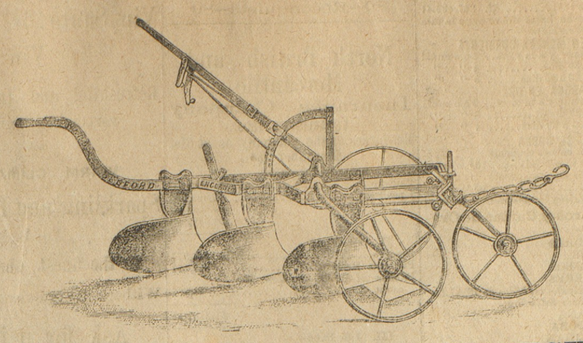
"PLOUGHS"



"PLOUGHS" "PLOUGHS"

Messrs M. Forrester & Co.

Beg to announce to the Public that they have lately introduced into this country with great success the

Celebrated Two and Three Furrow Ploughs of Messrs. HOWARD
ENGLAND

These WROUGHT IRON PLOUGHS fitted with breasts and shares of steel, have been extensively used in the Provinces and are destined to supersede the light and flimsy wood implements made by the Americans.

By means of a simple hand lever the onward movement of the animals raises the plough out of work at the ends, thus saving the driver the usual hard lifting connected with ploughing.

The two Furrow Plough is drawn by a pair of bullocks, thus doing double the work of a single plough and still with only one man.

These "Multiple" Ploughs are now almost universally employed in Australia and South Africa, and in recommending these implements Messrs. Forrester & Co feel confident that they are well adapted to the requirements of the Plate.

In order to procure these Ploughs orders should be sent in at once, or disappointment may be incurred.
